

Studies of society and environment (SOSE)

Purpose

To expand students' knowledge and understanding of their local environment and its relationship to global societies and environments.

To provide students with the opportunity to develop and apply knowledge, skills and values which enable them to participate as active and informed citizens in a democratic society and a global community.

Guidelines

To teach SOSE with other key learning areas through integrated units.

To assist students to understand the key concepts which relate to Studies of Society and Environment.

To develop skills necessary to investigate, analyse, interpret and communicate information related to SOSE.

To enable students to develop and justify views about issues related to Studies of Society and Environment.

To develop in students an appreciation of cultures other than their own.

Evaluation

Staff will evaluate the program annually through the program budgeting process.

A major review will take place at intervals in accordance with the Whole School Plan.
